A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on September 9, 2009 has been entered.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 18-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Matsumoto et al (EP 1 208 755 A1).

Matsumoto et al disclose anthocyanin-containing composition and oral administration of anthocyanin-composition comprising 1 to 25% by weight of anthocyanin (Paragraphs [0055-0057] and [0114]) and further disclose that said composition has a blood fluidity improvement function (paragraph [0053]). The tyrosinase inhibiting activity and amelioration of facial blood flow activity would have been inherent in the method disclosed by Matsumoto et al since the same compound in the same concentration is administered to the same subject.

Applicant's arguments filed September 9, 2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that the claimed composition has a tyrosinase inhibiting activity, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim.
